

VOTE OF WESTERLY CANVASSED

Result Reduces License Majority From 45 to 43—Obituary—
Dr. William P. Pendleton, Howard York Stillman—
Chief of Police Brown Shoots a Fox.

Dr. Edward P. Pendleton, a native of Westerly, died in Taunton, Mass., Monday, aged 77. He was the son of William C. and Phoebe Hall Pendleton, and spent his young manhood in his native town. He served in the Civil war, enlisting in Company First, Rhode Island Cavalry, August 15, 1862. He was assigned to the hospital from December, 1862, to April, 1863, and to headquarters until June 1863. He was taken prisoner by the rebels June 15, 1863, at Middleburg, Virginia, and released at City Point July 23, 1863. He was exchanged February 4, 1864, at Portsmouth, N. H., and transferred to the 11th company, Second battalion, V. R. I., and was then honorably discharged and mustered out April 18, 1865. His regimental comrades from Westerly were Nicholas Egan, Solomon Geo. Hiram Green, William R. Lawrence, John Lewis, George H. Martin, Hubbard Newton, Andrew R. O'Donnell, John G. Raynor, Edward B. Soule, John Swindley, Albert Upton, John W. Vincent, Joshua Vose, William H. Wilbur and Isaac P. York. Of these, Mr. Raynor, now in his 83d year, is the only one living in Westerly.

The deceased leaves a brother and two sisters, Albert P. Pendleton, Harriet P. Pendleton and Mrs. Adeline Chapman. Burial will be at River Bend.

Howard York Stillman, 66, of Westerly and Daytons, Fla., died Tuesday in John Hopkins hospital, Baltimore. He was the son of the late Sanford Stillman, and is survived by his mother, his widow and one child. Also by two brothers, Dwight R. and Frederick A. Stillman. He was graduated from the Westerly high school, class of 1875, from Brown university in 1879 with the degree of A. B., and from Columbia law school in 1881. He practiced law in New York city for several years. He subsequently engaged in the real estate business at Daytons, Fla. He was a member of the Westerly historical society, organized two years ago, and his death is the first to occur in the organization. The body will be brought to Westerly for burial in the family plot at Oak Grove cemetery, Ashaway.

Among Mr. Stillman's classmates at the Westerly high school were Charles E. G. Douglas, for over 20 years, teacher of English in the New York high schools and a summer resident of Westerly; Arthur Perry, a leavey broker and banker of Boston; Rev. Everett Tomlinson, noted author of Elizabeth, N. J., and Dr. James L. Wells, of Boston, and the other members of the class were Mr. Edwin Arnold, Jennie A. Card (Mrs. Perry Dawley), Estelle E. Conner (Mrs. Lewis), Mrs. Henry M. Maxson, Carrie Shumway (Mrs. Sheeman), Venie White and William G. Stanton, deceased.

The Westerly town council members have canvassed the license vote, as required by law, with the result of a decrease in the majority for license.

RHEUMA

The Standard Remedy for All Forms of Rheumatism and Kidney Troubles.

Are you suffering from some form of rheumatism? Then you need a remedy for that disease only—not a preparation said to cure all the ills of the human body. Rubbing in liniments will only quiet the pain temporarily, but will not remove the cause. Rheumatism cleanses the kidneys of the poisonous uric acid secretions; opens the closed veins so that the healthy blood can pass along the dead matter from the entire system; regulates the disordered bowels, and enables a sluggish liver to convert thin, impure blood into rich, life-giving corpuscles. When this is accomplished there is no more rheumatism, for the source of the disease will be wiped out. Rheumatism is free from dangerous drugs. During the treatment the digestive organs are not deranged—Rheuma creates a healthy appetite. Get a bottle from Lee & Osgood or any druggist. It is inexpensive. Your

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the delicate stomach lining, and they don't take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids.

It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "biliousness" and that lousy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. At 10c and 25c per box. Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

MYSTIC

Rebekah Lodge to Entertain Grand Officers—High School Boys' Wireless Equipment—Republicans Celebrate Victory.

Mystic Rebekah lodge, No. 58, I. O. O. F., in a flourishing condition. This (Friday) evening a class will receive the degree, Friday evening, Dec. 18, the lodge will entertain the grand officers of the assembly. Supper will be served at six o'clock that evening. The lodge will have as its guest Home Rebekah lodge, No. 59, of Groton. A large class will receive the degree.

Wireless Equipment. Harold Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mitchell of Pearl street, and Edward Flynn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Flynn, have tried an experiment to see what they could do with wireless telegraphy and have a station in their large garage with Mr. Mitchell's large car.

The boys, who go to the high school, have planned the whole affair and have an aerial 75 feet high in front of the house in a large tree. It has a slant to forty feet near the barn at the rear of the house. The aerial is 75 feet long. The boys have got so they can receive messages and have heard from five distant wireless stations. The boys are in hopes to be able to send some messages before long. Many visitors go to the station and from 8 o'clock until 12 many messages are received.

REPUBLICAN PARADE

Wednesday evening a large crowd turned out to see the republican parade in honor of those elected to the legislature. At 8:15 o'clock the line was formed, headed by Lieutenant Percy Morgan on horseback as marshal, and the Mystic Cornet band. The members of S. P. Hoyle Engine Co. No. 1 carried a large banner inscribed "Our Senator from B. F. Hoyle No. 1." The parade was headed by the company and about 15 automobiles which carried some of the officials of both the town of Groton and the principal streets, both sides of the river, and ended on Bank square where several selections. All along the line the fire was displayed.

CASCARETS FOR COSTIVE BOWELS, SOUR STOMACH, COLIC OR HEADACHE

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, distention and sick headache, means your stomach is sour—your liver is torpid—your bowels constipated. It isn't your stomach's fault—it isn't indigestion—it's biliousness and constipation. Try Cascarets; they sweeten the stomach, remove the acid, fermenting food and foul gases; take bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble, headache, bad cold and all such miseries end.

HIS FRAZZLED NERVES

Stayfield's nerves were bad and his particular horror was noise. He had fled from the city to escape the eternal din, but even the seclusion of the country was not a soundless paradise. Into the first room, that was assigned him, he took a hammock, and there he lay, and into his second room the snore of his next door neighbor penetrated.

"It takes a noise in a cottage," announced at the office, and he was immediately shown to a large ground floor apartment that overlooked a beautiful lawn.

"This is the first quiet spot I have struck for seven years," he announced to the boy who showed him the room. "And here's a quarter for bringing me to such a peaceful den." But the peace was soon disturbed by the sound of a lawn mower, one of the noises that entailed a special torture for poor Stayfield.

However, the lawn mower was a mere trifle compared with the sound that awaited him that evening when he returned from the main building where he had just dined, to the well-known restfulness of his own cottage retreat.

"Of all the sounds in the world that I most abominate," he said to himself, "the chief is the sound of a squeaky hammock, and here, almost at my window, is the vilest sounding one that it was ever my misfortune to listen to."

And sure enough, on the porch of a neighboring cottage that was close to his own, a hammock gently swayed, and the swaying was accompanied by a metallic shriek of rusty, abraded iron that Stayfield declared himself himself a little short of diabolical.

"And there's a woman in it!" he said, "and no doubt she is one of those nervous people who are perfectly unconscious of the noise they make themselves, but who want everybody else to be as soundless as the grave. Well, there's no rest for me in my room until this thing stops. It's just a question of how long a woman chooses to swing."

He returned to the main building, sat long in the reading room and then went back to his cottage, only to be greeted by the steady, intolerable squeak of his neighbor's hammock.

"I declared, mentally, and then reflected that he had complained so many times at the office and each time he had been met with a smile of patient indulgence. His courage failed him and he contended himself with mentioning the matter to his doctor.

"Oh, put it out of your consciousness," was the physician's advice, and Stayfield determined to act upon this prescription.

The next evening he seated himself by his bedroom window with an exciting novel in his hand and in his mind the firm resolve not to allow any evil sound to come between him and the lovely heroine of the story.

"This is too much," he muttered, so himself at the end of the third chapter. Down went the book on the table and out of the door went Stayfield. He wandered for over an hour about the grounds and when he returned to his room the hammock was still and the neighboring porch deserted.

"Before another day has passed," declared Stayfield himself, as he lay in his bed that night, "I'll stop the squeak of that infernal hammock if I have to cut it down and throw it in the lake."

For the first time in his life, when he returned the next evening after dinner the hammock was quiet and apparently unoccupied.

"Now's my chance," said Stayfield to himself, and hurrying into his room, he seized a bottle of oil that he had found on the shelf in his closet and made his way to the neighboring porch. It was dark, but he had a small flashlight in his pocket. Turning this on the rope that held the objectionable hammock, he proceeded to spout oil in a wholesale manner.

"Who's that?" a voice from the hammock suddenly demanded, and another flashlight encountered Stayfield's and was turned directly into his face. By the light of his own tiny electric light saw a pretty, pale face, surrounded by disheveled locks, turned toward him. But there was a smile on the face and no particular hostility in the glance.

"I beg your pardon," declared Stayfield, returning the smile. "But I noticed that your hammock squeaked so I thought you might like to have it oiled."

"How very kind!" she murmured. At first there was a pause, then Stayfield standing with his bottle of oil in one hand and the flashlight in the other, had the young woman sitting upright on the hammock, their distance, the question of disturbing sounds and of special noises that each one of them was sensitive to for fifteen minutes by the clock.

"I hope my hammock didn't annoy you," she said, in parting.

"Oh, not at all," he answered, quickly. "Of course I noticed it, but I put it out of my consciousness as far as it was possible, in only five days that it might spoil your rest and retard your cure."—Chicago News.

CURIOUS CLIFF HOUSES.

Queer Prehistoric Dwellings in Mesa Verde National Park.

The Mesa Verde National Park is situated in southwestern Colorado, and is one of the most remarkable prehistoric ruins in the world. The park is famous for its cliff dwellings, which are the remains of a group of prehistoric people who lived there from about 900 to 1300 A.D.

The principal and most accessible ruins are the Spruce Tree House, Cliff Palace, Balcony House and Tunnel House. Spruce Tree House is located in the heart of Spruce Tree canyon, a branch of Navajo canyon. It originally contained about 120 rooms, built of dressed stone laid in adobe mortar, with the outside tiers chinked with chips of rock and broken pottery.

Cliff Palace is located about two miles east of Spruce Tree House, in a left branch of Spruce Tree canyon, and consists of a group of houses with ruins of 146 rooms, including twenty round kivas or ceremonial rooms and a tapering looped tower forming a crescent of about 100 yards from horn to horn which is supposed to be one of the most famous works of prehistoric man in existence.

"I beg your pardon," said Stayfield, returning the smile. "But I noticed that your hammock squeaked so I thought you might like to have it oiled."

ENERGY OF THE SUN.

Intensity of the Light and Heat It Shades Upon Our Lives.

By a series of curious experiments scientists men have gained a fair idea of the intensity of light and heat from the sun as compared with earthly instruments.

When the sun is at the zenith, or directly overhead, its light is equal to seventy-five electric lights placed only three feet from the observer. Yet an electric light is too dazzling for any one to gaze steadily at it. And as compared with Sirius, which is the brightest in the heavens, the light of the sun is 20,000,000 times more brilliant.

The intensity of solar heat on our globe varies greatly, in a way that sunlight does not, the former being affected by locations, altitudes, changes of the atmosphere and many causes.

It has been estimated, however, that the total quantity of heat which the earth receives from the sun each year is enough to melt a layer of ice covering the entire globe and having a thickness of a hundred feet.

But this is only a very small portion of the whole amount of heat given out by the sun. The total solar heat is enough to melt every day a layer of ice two and one-half miles thick, about the entire sun or, to take Professor Tyndall's comparison, the sun's heat emitted in one hour is equal to that produced by burning a worm of coal sixteen and one-half miles thick.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Plenty of Jaw.

HUB-MARK RUBBERS

SCHOOL DAYS NEVER END

Thousands of people are yearly learning to know the difference between honest goods and the other kind. Long ago in his school many learned the true economical value of Hub-Mark Rubbers and they have never forgotten the lesson. That's why the business man, the professional man, the policeman, the motorman and the postman say "Hub-Mark" to the storeman when they buy rubbers.

Mother with a true sense of economy and sense of health protection insist on Hub-Mark rubbers for their boys and girls. They cost no more than other standard, first quality rubbers.

Hub-Mark rubber footwear is made by a factory which is the largest and best equipped in the world and one who has been satisfying the public foot wants for sixty years.

Order by name, say "Hub-Mark." It's a wise foot note to the shoe list.

These rubbers are manufactured by the Boston Rubber Shoe Company, Malden, Mass.
